

Sembawang Shipyard at the Clean & Green Week Schools Carnival 2004 to promote Green Wave Environment Competition

Launched by the Minister for the Environment and Water Resources on 16 November 2004, the three-day Clean & Green Week (CGW) Schools Carnival 2004 saw 31 schools and 27 corporations showcasing their joint environmental projects at the Singapore Expo. Themed 'Environmental Ownership', the 31 Enviro-Innovate Projects on display are a result of collaboration between schools and corporations, facilitated by the National Environment Agency's (NEA) 'Adopt-A-School' scheme - a new initiative introduced in April 2004. There was also a range of interactive activities to help and encourage students on how they can take on greater ownership of the environment.

Continued on page 10

Visitors to our booth being briefed by Ms Rosilah Mosli, Marketing Officer

Sembawang Shipyard at the Clean & Green Week Schools Carnival 2004 to promote Green Wave Environment Competition

We participated in this meaningful event to further promote our Green Wave Environment Competition to the schools and students. We showcased key objectives of our environmental outreach to schools and students as well as displayed posters of winning teams and winning projects from the inaugural competition in 2003. We had many interested students from Primary to Tertiary levels and visitors who came by our booth to learn more about our Green Wave Competition and how they can participate in future competition. Our representatives at the Clean & Green Week, Mr Eddie Toh (HSE Engineer), Mr Gerard

Norman Theseira (Project Engineer) and Ms Rosilah Mosli (Marketing Officer) met and encouraged the students to share their innovative ideas on environmental care and protection by taking part in the Green Wave Competition. The Clean and Green Week Carnival for Schools was successfully held over three days, with thousands of students visiting and taking part in the carnival.